

LIEBE GROUP & GRAINGROWERS MEDIA RELEASE

MONDAY 4th FEBRUARY 2019

AgChats introduced to help local growers

Local farm businesses will be able to access interactive learning opportunities across 2019 through a new AgChats initiative of the Liebe Group. The AgChat series has been designed to focus on agronomic and business management topics for local farm businesses.

Utilising the Liebe Group's Agricultural Research and Education Facility, monthly workshops will feature industry experts as well as providing opportunities for local businesses to share their experiences.

GrainGrowers are supporting the roll-out of the AgChats. Alan Meldrum, Western Regional Coordinator said: "GrainGrowers is always looking at ways to bring growers together to discuss progressive farming applications. I know the AgChats will bring real value to growers."

The February session will have senior chemists from CSBP and Nufarm Australia presenting on "Don't get blocked up: tank mixing basics". They will be discussing agrochemicals and spray operations in farming businesses.

Jennifer and Daniel Birch, local growers and Liebe Group members said: "We are looking forward to the inception of AgChats which will provide an informative and diverse learning opportunity in a time conscious format".

About the Liebe Group

The Liebe Group is a dynamic, grower-driven, not for profit organisation servicing over 85 farming businesses within the Dalwallinu, Coorow, Perenjori and Wongan-Ballidu Shires, encompassing a land area of over 1,000,000ha.

Media contact:

Rebecca McGregor, Executive Officer, Liebe Group

Phone: 08 9661 1907

Email: eo@liebegrup.org.au

About GrainGrowers Limited

GrainGrowers is a leading voice for Australian Grain farmers, representing their interests at a national and international level. GrainGrowers works with progressive and profit-focused farmers to drive positive change and advance their agenda both nationally and internationally.

Media contact:

Shona Gawel, GrainGrowers

Phone: 0479 052 734